

McCarthy & Stone

McCarthy & Stone is one of the UK's leading retirement home builders, with around 120 developments throughout the country stretching from Inverness to Plymouth, and administration centres in eight key geographical regions.

The background...

Romec was approached by McCarthy & Stone to provide preventative and corrective maintenance services to the mechanical and electrical (M+E) plant and to provide minor internal fabric works, plumbing and gas services.

This gave Romec an opportunity to work with a key client and to implement and develop a wide range of additional services through managing large projects, such as the replacement of roof-mounted cooling towers and remedial works at a water treatment plant, carried out by Romec's own team and specialist sub-contractors.

Within any large business it is of high importance to manage costs effectively. Romec ensured this was the case by employing a handyman to visit the site each week to carry out minor repairs, reducing costs for McCarthy & Stone and Romec.

Our Building Maintenance Services team also use the new 'toughbook' technology, to make sure all records are stored effectively and that the process is standardised to help ensure consistency and to save time.

The project...

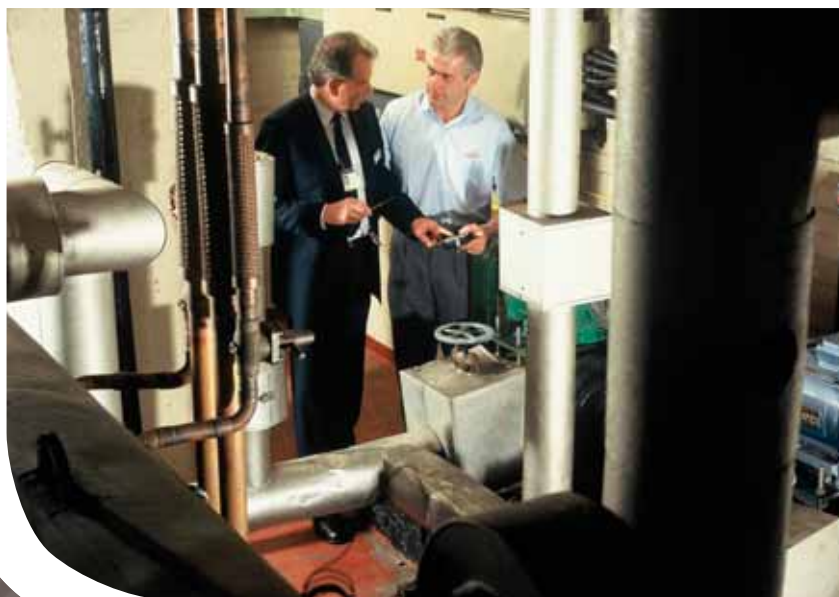

McCarthy & Stone chose Romec because of its excellent service delivery proposals, along with competitive pricing strategies and all round customer satisfaction.

Romec's technical support team is on hand to give advice wherever necessary, ensuring that the job gets done – not only skilfully, but well within timescales and budgets.

The customer...

"A lot of hard work and excellent planning went into the contract – I feel the whole project went very well."

Alan Martin,
McCarthy & Stone.
